PROBLEM - What problem did you identify that you are choosing to solve?	The problem was clearly defined and presented as a compelling problem to be addressed. The problem was presented as a climate or environmental issue. 5	The problem was vaguely defined; was presented without urgency; or was not clearly presented as a climate or environmental issue 3	The problem was not defined; or was not presented as a climate or environmental issue 1
SOLUTION - How are you proposing to solve this problem? This section should be detailed to include the solution and how you propose to make it work. FEASIBILITY is important.	The solution is clearly addressing the problem. The plan for HOW the team would go about implementing the solution is clear. The solution seems feasible (doable) with moderate support. 10	The solution is loosely but not directly addressing the problem; or the plan is lacking details for HOW the team would implement or carry it out; or the solution does not seem feasible (doable) without a LOT of support 7	The solution is not addressing the problem; or there is not a clear plan for HOW to carry out the solution; or the solution is not at all feasible or doable 1
INNOVATION - What is different about your project compared to other programs or solutions already out there? How is your approach new, better, or innovative?	What makes this solution different or better than other approaches is clearly described 5	What makes this solution different or better is vaguely described 3	There is no explanation of what makes this solution innovative compared to other approaches 1

STORY - Share a story about the "Aha!" moment that led you to get started or inspired your plan.	The story behind this solution is presented in an inspiring way that draws the audience in 5	The story behind this solution is told, but is not presented in a way that captures the attention of the audience 3	A story behind the idea is not presented 1
IMPACT - What impact do you hope your project will have in your community? How is this solution going to provide equitable benefit to everyone in the community?	The team makes a strong case for the positive impact this solution will have on the community 10	The team vaguely suggests how this solution will positively impact the community 7	The team does not indicate how the solution will positively impact the community 1
NEXT STEPS - How are you planning to take your project to the next level? What support do you need to take it to the next level?	The team clearly outlines steps for taking their solution to the next stage and makes a clear ask for support from the audience 5	The team offers vague next steps for taking their solution to the next stage; or makes a vague appeal for support from the audience. 3	The team does not outline next steps and does not make a clear ask for support from the audience 1
